STICK TO FUNDAMENTALLY SOUND AND LIQUID PLAYS AHEAD OF GE15 - UOB KAY HIAN

According to UOB Kay Hian's head of Malaysia research Vincent Khoo, in his strategy report released on Wednesday (Oct19), sees some trading opportunities tied to speculation surrounding the upcoming 15th general election (GE15). However, the research firm advises investors to stick to fundamentally sound and liquid stocks. Its assessment assumes a base case for an Umno-led coalition winning a bigger majority in Parliament during GE15, taking cue from the results of several by-elections and three state elections since GE14. While this positively implies stability in politics/business policies, the market still lacks past elections' (before GE14) mojo of coinciding with major government contract awards.

Instead, investment sentiment will continue to be swayed by global issues – stubbornly high inflation and the US' monetary policy contraction throughout 2022, the ongoing Russia-Ukraine war, and China's zero-Covid policy. UOB Kay Hian's top picks are large-cap stocks such as government-linked banks CIMB Group Holdings Bhd, Malayan Banking Bhd and RHB Bank Bhd. He also likes Gamuda Bhd and MY EG Services Bhd (MYEG) as he expects the newly installed federal government to award the Mass Rapid Transit 3 Circle Line contracts by the first quarter of 2023 – for which Gamuda is a leading bidder for the tunnelling section – and to give the green light for MYEG to roll out the automated testing module for car driver licence. He added that Citaglobal Bhd (formerly known as WZ Satu Bhd) could also appeal as a concept-driven trading play.

Acknowledging that some investors would remain wary of GE15's dampening investment sentiment, the research firm is also recommending a list of defensive high yielders, which are not operating in politically sensitive sectors. These high yielders are also predicted to deliver market-outperforming absolute returns. They include Bermaz Auto Bhd, Hap Seng Plantations Holdings Bhd, Kim Loong Resources Bhd, Malakoff Corp Bhd, Matrix Concepts Holdings Bhd and Sunway Real Estate Investment Trust. Some of these companies are cash-rich and are likely to reward shareholders with special dividends, such as Bermaz. As Hap Seng's dividends are back-loaded, we expect chunky dividends to be announced [along with its results for the fourth quarter of financial year 2022].

He also projects that the benchmark FBM KLCI will continue to trend up towards the year end as US core inflation indicators would have peaked by then. However, there is downside risk to our end-2022 FBM KLCI target of 1,585 points should our base assumptions/hopes not all materialise – peak US inflation, the Russia-Ukraine war not worsening, and a not overly harsh winter season in the eurozone.

RETAIL INVESTOR CAPITAL PRESENTS US$35B GROWTH OPPORTUNITY FOR SUSTAINABLE INVESTING IN MALAYSIA - STANCHART

According to Standard Chartered's Sustainable Banking Report 2022 released on Tuesday (Oct18), Malaysia could mobilise US$35 billion (RM165 billion) in sustainable retail investments by 2030, particularly the financing of climate transition. This capital could also play a critical part in bridging funding gaps in Malaysia's other environmental, social and governance (ESG) priorities such as pollution and waste management. The report said Malaysia has high potential for growth in sustainable investing, largely due to its significant population and rising domestic wealth. Across Malaysia, 36% of investors want to put their money towards addressing climate issues. Greater access and transparency in the sustainable investment ecosystem could mobilise Malaysia's retail capital potential in reaching its carbon neutrality targets, aside from other ESG issues of concern to retail investors, such as pollution, waste management and energy security. Investors in Malaysia identified perceived low returns/higher risk (53%), accessibility (51%) and comparability (45%) as their top barriers to increasing their sustainable investments.

The report further highlights the need for investor and market-specific barriers that need to be overcome to translate this investor interest into actual impact. According to Standard Chartered Malaysia managing director and head of consumer, private and business banking Sammeer Sharma, research showed that 72% and 86% of affluent and high net worth investors respectively in Malaysia have a high level of interest in sustainable investments, motivated by their desire to help restore the environment and hedge against ESG risks. The synergies between syariah-compliant investing and sustainable investments also present an opportunity to channel private capital towards sustainable investments. He added that a rapidly growing number of clients want their investments to make a positive impact on the environment and in society, and there is significant appetite to take ESG investment from a niche play to a mainstream investment strategy.

SC INKS REGIONAL SUPERVISORY COOPERATION DEAL

The Securities Commission (SC) has inked the IOSCO Asia-Pacific Regional Committee's (APRC) multilateral memorandum of understanding for supervisory cooperation (supervisory MMoU) at the International Organisation of Securities Commissions (IOSCO) annual meetings 2022 in Morocco recently. According to a statement by SC, given the increasing cross-border activities in capital markets within the region, this supervisory MMoU establishes, for the first time, a formal framework for regional supervisory cooperation among capital market regulators. With the signing of the supervisory MMoU, the SC now has a cooperative arrangement on supervisory matters with its regional regulatory counterparts including in Australia, Hong Kong, Japan, Singapore and Thailand. SC chairman Datuk Seri Dr Awang Adek Hussin said cross-border supervisory cooperation is a key element to enhance investor protection. He added, information-sharing with regional regulators through this platform will strengthen the SC's overall supervisory capabilities.

APRC chair Takashi Nagaoka congratulated the SC for being among the first signatories of the IOSCO APRC supervisory MMoU. He said, this is an important milestone that will enhance regulators' cooperation and coordination across borders. The SC has also been re-elected as a member of the board of IOSCO, the governing and standard-setting body responsible for leading the direction and standard-setting process on policy issues affecting global capital markets, for the 2022-2024 term. The SC has been a member of the IOSCO board since 2012. During the IOSCO annual meetings, global securities regulators discussed the impact of current international developments in the financial sector, including the risks and challenges to the capital market. Delegates also shared their views on a wide range of topics, including crypto and digital assets, sustainable finance, emerging risks and retail market conduct. The IOSCO is the leading international policy forum for securities regulators, where the organisation's members regulate more than 95% of the world's securities markets in 130 jurisdictions.

OBSOLETE BUDGET 2023 SETS BENCHMARK FOR NEW BUDGET 2023

Devanesan
Evanson

Chief Executive Officer, Minority
Shareholders Watch Group

Doubtlessly, Budget 2023 only had a three-day lifespan between its tabling on 7 October and the dissolution of Parliament on 10 October to pave the way for the 15th General Election (GE15). Even as the election-centric budget would become obsolete in every sense of the word, it is still worthwhile to appraise it as a benchmark for future Budget 2023, which will come under the prerogative of whichever government comes into power postGE15.

Before we proceed to articulate the impact of Budget 2023 on Malaysia's capital markets – specifically the stock market – there is a need to point out that although historical trends showed a strong tendency for the FBM KLCI to rally closer to budget day, that trend was missing this year. This is predominantly due to the US Federal Reserve's aggressive monetary tightening process, which is poised to continue, as well as bearish market sentiment stemming from domestic political uncertainties, especially the widespread belief that the Parliament could be dissolved anytime soon after the tabling of Budget 2023.

In a way, Budget 2023 resembles Budget 2000 as the latter was tabled by the then Barisan Nasional (BN) Government on 29 October 1999, only for the Parliament to be dissolved on 11 November 1999 to make way for GE10 on 29 November 1999. BN eventually retained power in GE10. After GE10, the Parliament reconvened for a special session on 20-22 December 1999 to table a Supplementary Supply Bill to provide for Government expenditure for essentials like civil service salaries, pensions and debt services in early 2000.

Recall that Budget 2000 was re-tabled on 25 February 2000 and passed on 12 April 2000. Under Article 102 of the Federal Constitution, Parliament can authorise expenditure for a part of the year budget under the circumstances of “unusual urgency” until a Supply Bill is formally passed. Assuming that there is little change in the government after GE15, the likelihood is that most of the Budget 2023 allocations will stay with minor tweaking. However, if indeed there is a change of government, differences are likely to be made to the plans and fund allocations before the budget is tabled again.

NO REPEAT OF CUKAI MAKMUR

Given the continuing challenging fiscal situation faced by the Government, the corporate sector was braced for Budget 2023 to potentially contain corporate levies structured along similar lines to Budget 2022’s one-off Cukai Makmur prosperity tax. The one-off prosperity tax was applied to companies with taxable income above RM100 million via the excess income being taxed at a higher 33% rate for the 2022 tax assessment year.

While the corporate sector did not receive any significant fiscal “goodies” in Budget 2023, the equity market will be positively biased or able to breathe a sigh of relief that there were no taxes or levies like Cukai Makmur either. Overall, numerous measures articulated in Budget 2023 support the corporate sector’s operating recovery and profitability. Still, they are predominantly incremental and/or long-term and do not warrant stock/sector/market earnings adjustments at this juncture.

ESCALATING OPERATING COST

CGS-CIMB Research expects the market reaction to be neutral to negative post Budget 2023, given that there were plenty of election goodies (personal and SME tax cuts) but not significant enough to boost corporate earnings materially. “The lack of details on fiscal revenue reforms and potential dissolution of Parliament before Budget 2023 is passed (Parliament has already been dissolved on 10 October) could weigh on market sentiment,” cautioned the research house earlier.

A case in point is that the Government said it plans to implement a multi-tiered levy for foreign workers in 2023 and re-allocate proceeds raised from this additional levy to support funding automation initiatives for employers. However, it did not provide details on the new levy rate for foreign workers. Some analysts perceive this as a negative surprise for companies with high foreign workforce, especially those in the plantation, manufacturing, services, and construction sectors. Companies involved in these industries are expected to incur higher labour costs but may not be able to pass on these higher costs to consumers.

Moreover, the Government revealed in its fiscal report that the targeted subsidy mechanism will be gradually implemented in 2023. The government has reduced the subsidy and social assistance allocation to RM42 billion in Budget 2023 from RM58.9 billion in 2022. “If targeted fuel subsidy is implemented in 2023, it is likely to raise the operating costs of businesses in 2023. (Also) it was revealed in Budget 2023 that the Government intends to introduce a carbon tax and will study the feasibility of a carbon pricing mechanism. When introduced, this could further raise operating costs,” projected CGS-CIMB Research.

WINNERS & LOSERS

At a glance, a higher disposable income (via personal income tax rate reduction but partly offset by lower Bantuan Keluarga Malaysia hand-outs) is positive for the retail sector. The discontinuation of the one-off prosperity tax in 2023 is favourable for large corporations like banks, utilities and telcos as this will lead to a lower effective tax rate, hence boosting their net profit in 2023.

Meanwhile, the increase in stamp duty exemption to 75% from 50% for residential properties priced above RM500,000 to RM1 million for first-time homebuyers is positive for the property sector as this will likely spur buying interest among first-time home buyers for real estate in that price range. The construction sector should also benefit from the increase in development expenditure, reaffirmation of the Mass Rapid Transit Line 3 (MRT3) and flood mitigation projects (RM15 billion till 2030, with RM700 million allocated for 2023 alone). However, there is a lack of plans to implement new large-scale contracts (there was also no mention of the High-Speed Rail contract).

The absence of any sin-excise/tax hike should offer relief for gaming players, tobacco companies and brewers. The latter two should also benefit from continued efforts to clamp down on illicit products. The Government's initiative to boost the Malaysian electrical & electronics (E&E) by encouraging industry players to move up the value chain by facilitating the expansion of global multinational (MNC) operations in Malaysia and promoting the integrated circuits (IC) chips design industry will be positive for the semiconductor sector over the longer term.

On the flip side, introducing a multi-tiered levy for foreign workers is likely to be short term pain, long-term gain plan to encourage more automation initiatives. This could be mildly negative towards foreign worker-intensive sectors like the electronic manufacturing service (EMS), construction and plantation sectors – at least for the start.

Above all else, although plenty of goodies like personal income tax cuts and cash handouts were provided in Budget 2023, these may not be significant enough to materially boost corporate earnings, given that they could be offset by plans to implement target subsidies in 2023. This, coupled with the dissolution of Parliament to make way for GE15, is very likely to further weigh down market sentiment, which is already weak. Though obsolete, Budget 2023 as enunciated will serve as a benchmark for the new Budget 2023.
